

ABSTRACT

An arrangement for activating a target element is disclosed. The arrangement includes an activation engine and a journaling proxy coupled to the activation engine and the target element. The journaling proxy is configured to receive an atomic request from the activation engine<sup>1</sup>. The journaling proxy intentionally delays sending the atomic request to the target element for execution until a set of predefined configuration parameters for the target element is satisfied.